We work with both global corporations and dynamic young start-up companies to provide essential intelligence, support and assistance, enabling new innovations to rapidly convert to profitable sales revenues.

Unlike traditional consultancy firms, we both advise and deliver on our plans and recommendations, acting as managers as well as consultants.

We help our clients research and engage with the market, identify and facilitate collaborative business opportunities, develop and manage sales and marketing channel infrastructures, and assist in investment readiness and accessing funding resources.

Oxbridge is headquartered in Cambridge UK, Europe's leading magnet for new science and technology enterprises.
